

Hi,

my name is Nanno Veen and in 2012 I graduated from the International Baccalaureate (IB) program in Bollnäs.

In 2009 I moved to Sweden from my home country Holland and lived in and near Bollnäs until I moved to Stockholm in 2013. One of the main reasons why I chose the IB program was that I really liked the idea behind the program and how its focus was international. Another aspect that I liked about the program was that it was quite broad and I knew that I wanted different options after graduating.

After IB I first studied Music Production and Sound Design at Bollnäs folkhögskola for one year. The following year I was accepted at the Royal Music College (KMH) in Stockholm at the Music- and Media Production program of which I just finished the first out of three years.

Music and the music industry are both very international, especially in a country that is so successful at music export as Sweden. Therefore I am happy that I have become pretty comfortable at communicating in both English and Swedish. I also believe that for people and countries to become more open and to strive for a more global society could be a very good thing. IB has been a good step for me to be a bigger part of, and to be more aware of, that development.

My message to you would be to work hard for the things you want to do, but to not forget to enjoy yourself along the way.

Thank you for reading and have a nice day!

Nanno Veen
